

Disappear

Tonight Alive

Faceless, underwater
We can disappear for a while
No one will notice
Shifting, out of focus
The silence calls on us for a moment
Sinking down
Thought I lost myself, but I didn't
Looking up on us
Blurry vision
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear for a while
Nameless, talking
Big dreams and nobody wants them
Weightless, walking
Why does it feel like home when I'm lonely?
I always found
On the solid ground
I was tripping
Away from space and time
I don't really mind
That I'm slipping
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear for a while
It's not running away
We were never meant to stay
In the first place
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear for a while
Wading's not enough
It's more than just dipping your feet in
Dive in if you want
But I'll be jumping off in the deep end
Wading's not enough
It's more than just dipping your feet in
Dive in if you want
But I'll be jumping off in the deep end
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear for a while
We could disappear if we're going far away
It's not running away
We were never meant to stay
In the first place
