

Silly Dreamer

Tony Bennett

You're always up in the skies
With that look in your eyes, silly dreamer
Why don't you come down to earth
To the things that are really worthwhile?

You're like a spoiled little child
Who just wants to run wild, silly dreamer
And that's the wrong way to be
Won't you listen to me, my love?

You live in a world set apart
You laugh through your tears
Though it's breaking your heart

There'll be no sun and no moon
Until you change your tune, silly dreamer
But I will wait for the day
When again you will say I'm yours

There'll be no sun and no moon
Until you change your tune, silly dreamer
But I will wait for the day
When again you will say I'm yours

When again you will say I'm yours
