

All Those Tomorrows

Tony Joe White

I remember perfume in the darkness
It lingers in the room
And I will never forget the way you danced with me
In the white gown underneath the moon

Promises made hard to keep
All those tomorrows that never came
All those tomorrows we can't change
Time goes on but I'm the one left alone with the dreams

I keep looking back and picking up the pieces
But they keep falling on the floor
I thought the dance would last forever
But she don't move to that song anymore
Wish I could stay in yesterday

All those tomorrows that never came
All those tomorrows still remain
Here with me through tears I see only you in my dreams

All those tomorrows that never came
All those tomorrows forever changed
All those tomorrows
All those tomorrows
