

Sandbox

Too Much Joy

It's raining today
Left my car window open
There's no place to park
It's Christmas, Christmas time again

All the kids are crying
In this stupid mall
Nothing that I'm buying
Makes any sense at all

I can see myself in my sandbox
Nothing gets me down in my sandbox
Gonna spend some time in my sandbox

It's a mean old world
There's darkness neverending

Darkness inside me
I just stopped pretending

It's always summer
On my bedroom floor
Brought the beach to my house
Won't go outside no more

Raining today, no place to park, car's out of gas
TV's broke, your phone's off the hook, faucet drips
Drip drip drip, this fog'll never lift

Where is the sun?
There used to be a sun
