

Facing East From A Western Shore

Toothgrinder

Slow goes the road
Time takes its toll (time)
You can find me, climbing up and down the valley
Surround me, Tahoe to the forefront of Cali
Around me, got nothing but love for the sound, see it found me
Been climbing a mountain that must of found me
Surround me, been looking to settle down within the valley
The proud me, I'll push all the brush away with my hand
I'll clear the land, forget the sand
And build me a life that only I will understand
I paid my tolls, I broke the rules, a part of me is...
Crying out for love
The Southern Sojourner
My Muse, My Bliss
Building my own life
The Western Warrior
My blues, my kiss
Fighting for our right
Facing East from California
My strength, my fist
Welcome me home, welcome me home
Settle me down in the mountain's mist

I'm climbing a mountain, it must have been so high

The evergreen, the somber seas
My baby sees the part of me that needs this in my life

I'm a phantom again, goodbye to my home again
I'm a phantom again, goodbye to my home again
I'm a phantom again, goodbye to my home again
I'm a phantom again, goodbye to my home again
