

The Kitchen

Tow'rs

Buried our differences out in the yard
Next to the tall grass beside the barn
We sang songs to send them on their way
But they found us again, they found us again

You made me dance in the kitchen with you
If I was the night then you were the moon
Expectation is the currency of fools
I spent it on you, I spent it on you

Tell me once more, speak to my chest
I wanna bleed all the words you said
Call us the dawn, a shadow of grace
You don't say you love me, so I'll do the same
You don't say you love me, so I'll do the same

Spring time came and the trees were just bones
I drank my coffee in the kitchen alone
I thought how your courage would never cease
Like the waves of the sea, like the waves I see

Say it once more, speak to my chest
I wanna bleed all the words you said
Call us the dawn, a shadow of grace
You don't say you love me, so I'll do the same
You don't say you love me, so I'll do the same

You made me dance in the kitchen with you
If I was the night then you were the moon
