

Too Little Too Late

Trapt

I had time to read your letter
I read every word
I can feel your pain
But you'll never learn

We were the definition of insanity
What else can I say but

Too little too late
Too little too late
Too little too late
You had it all
But you took too long to change

Too little too late
Too little too late
Too little too late
You had it all
But you took too long to change

I can see you treading water
Exhausted with thirst
And I can't explain
Why I held my hand out first

But I couldn't hold it quite long enough
I had to walk away cause

Too little too late
Too little too late
Too little too late
You had it all
But you took too long to change

Too little too late
Too little too late
Too little too late
You had it all
But you took too long to change

Don't save your best for last
Cause you may not get the chance
Don't save your best for last
Cause it might not last
Cause it might not

I can see you treading water
I ain't going after you

Too little too late
Too little too late
Too little too late
You had it all
But you took too long to change

Too little too late
Too little too late

Too little too late
You had it all
But you took too long to change

Don't save your best for last
Cause you may not get the chance
Don't save your best for last
Cause it might not last
Cause it might not