Run for Cover

Trauma

You never know if the attack is coming in the night
You never know what terror night will bring
You never know if you are looking at the last sunrise
And will the sunset set you free

We're living in a world at war
Under the rain of the cannon's roar

You wonder how much time is spilling from the hour glass
And when it runs where will we be
When will the reaper come and offer you a guiding hand
It's all a mystery to me

We're living in a world at war
Under the rain of the cannon's roar
The sirens screaming through the air

Chorus 1: In the night the bullets flying
Echoes of the fallen crying
Run for cover run to get away

You are a soldier in the army of the western land
The battle is your destiny
To fight, to live or die, to kill or cry is your command
Will always be your legacy

We're living in a world at war
Under the rain of the cannon's roar
The sirens screaming through the air

Chorus 2: In the night the bullets flying
Echoes of the fallen crying
Run for cover run to get away
In the dark the wounded screaming
Wishing you were only dreaming
Run for cover fight another day

War is death's desire, the fodder for the fire
Feed the war machine, an appetite obscene
Tonight the end awaits, too long you tempt the fates
The reaper's scythe will sweep, too soon your widow weeps
Run

Chorus 2 Out