

A World Away

Tremonti

Counting down
Days left here
One more time
Before I disappear

Dead within. Hollowed heart
Cast aside
A whole life ripped apart

But I'm still trying to believe
I swear that I will leave today
Another life, a world away
I've never felt an ounce of love
It's not my home, and it never was

Caving in. Anchored here
The ghost has left
But always reappears
Ask yourself
Are you free
Time will tell
How deeply you believe

How deeply you believe

How deeply you believe
I swear that I will leave today
Another life, a world away
I've never felt an ounce of love
It's not my home, and it never was

At last decide, to go and find
Whatever we call fate is now too late to change at all
Whenever we break free
Whatever comes will be alright... alright
Whatever end we bring
We'll cherish everything this time this time

But I'm still trying to believe
I swear that I will leave today
Another life, a world away
This heartless place has held me down
Too many years, and it's over now

And it's over now