

Nightbound

Tribulation

On the borders
On the brink of lies
I set off firm in resolve
Down the valley of twilight to search
For something lost
In timeless dusk
Dreams unfold
In the backwood's mist
Of sacred memories untold
Two worlds collide
Disturbance in the flow of time
The sky splits apart
Commands me to surrender
And part from the light

Profound sadness
Humbled and cast down to the ground
As lightning strikes me down
Nightbound

I remember, I remember who we are
And the long night comes with grace
Demons of stone arise
To evoke new birth
While sorrows past
Sinks into the earth

Profound sadness
Humbled and cast down to the ground
As lightning strikes me down
Nightbound

I remember, I remember who we are
And the long night comes with grace

Dying is the first and last
But nothing ever ends
Crying, slipping from this world
To be reborn again