

Know It

Trip Lee

I still don't get it
You can't do push-ups, but you still bear the weight of a village
Can't take tattoo pain, but you labored for twelve hundred minutes
You some kind of Wonder Woman I think
Though I'd like to take credit for my choosing, I can't Sent from the King, full of fuel in the tank, one minute in your shoes I'd faint
I'm amazed at you
That night a little test broke in with the news
That you're not alone, now your body is home to more than you
Took a minute to accept that our life changed
Once again, it's a trend and it's quite strange
Thought we was done, but I guess I got nice aim

Oh, girl, could there be anyone like you in this world? I doubt it
Everybody wanna brag 'bout the bag, talkin' 'bout a good thing, I found it
Always at your pace how your run your race, putting in that mileage
I don't know if you know it, I just want you to know it

I can't pretend
That I know how you felt when you wrote that text, hit send
It's hard to figure out how ambition and children can blend
I seen you smile when it's harder
I seen your kindness come out in our daughter
I seen the way you keep all this in order, all this in order
I seen pages in your planner get torn out
Umbrellas get a job when the storm out
Yeah, it's rain we can stand in it
Somehow we add a kid to our clan in a pandemic
These are cards we was both dealt
I pray they grow, but you had to grow them yourself
Best thing I ever made was some words
But you made two classics, you on to the third, third

Oh, girl, could there be anyone like you in this world? I doubt it
Everybody wanna brag 'bout the bag, talkin' 'bout a good thing, I found it
Always at your pace how your run your race, putting in that mileage
I don't know if you know it, I just want you to know it

Baby, it's true
When they born, almost everything they need comes right from you
And I can tell you in His image girl, you make humans, too
Amazed that He gave us this gift
How you laid your life down just so they can live
How you gave your body, what more you could give, give? Just like he did
Our future's bright
So glad you and me stand side-by-side through the fight
And it's a blessing that now that we three arrows that we sending in flight, flight
And this baby, he the light we needed while our world was shady
All he do is smile like nothing faze him
Nothing more to say, he amazing

Oh, girl, could there be anyone like you in this world? I doubt it
Everybody wanna brag 'bout the bag, talkin' 'bout a good thing, I found it
Always at your pace how your run your race, putting in that mileage
I don't know if you know it, I just want you to know it
