

Have I Told You

Trouble

Have I told you I'd be done without you and your love so sweet?

When the moonlight pours out from your eyes in every drop of tears

I offer these sincere apologies for the life I've brought to this day

Have I shown you I would die before I give up on this love?
No words can heal all of the pain you feel
It's the cross I carry today

If I told you we can sort this out, oh, would you do the same?

Drifting strangers, can we be apart?
I'd never want to be When the world just disappears because it's only you and me

I offer these sincere apologies
For the life I've brought you
No words can heal all of the pain you feel
It's the cross I carry today

and your love so sweet?
