

The Charismatic Smile

Tub Ring

The suit was fitted pressed and laid out on the bed
The folders stacked upon the shelf
And every detail was immaculately cared for

A corporation of yourself
And soon they'll all have their opinions
And every expert has a voice

You've brought them here today
Through charismatic speaking
Without so much a pretense why

And when it's all laid out
The tension has been broken
Until a moment passes by

And now they all have their opinions
And every expert has a voice
And soon the room is filled with menial discussion
Until you rise above the noise, rise above the noise

And that's when you smile and take control the room
You smile, now they're staring at you
Well you've raised the bar by playing rough
But are your methods good enough
To take the fools for everything they're worth