The gray space
That surrounds me scarily
Although I smile bitterly
About wishes that are still left
Inside the past memories that
Lost its way in the messed up road
I wander again like puzzles that don't match

Hug me coldly
I have to face the world
If I go until there, will I see the end?
The deep wound won't heal
Dear god, please save us
In this last war

I only need you
Only you know
That city that was burned black
Needs a poem of tears
The lust that is mixed with my grin and
Those people that became blind after losing their dream
Please lend them your strength
So that they can spread their wings again

Hug me coldly
I have to face the world
If I go until there, will I see the end?
The deep wound won't heal
Dear god, please save us
In this last war

When the sun's light turns red you
Make a prayer so wishful
Even if the light of wisdom is blinded
Don't stop, wake the destroyed world

Kiss me passionately
I have to fight the lies
How far will I have to go to see the end?
The deep wound won't heal
Dear God, please save us
In this last war
