Bye bye, my sweet love

Goodbye to the thoughtless days

At times, I miss it at times I'm lonely

The common words that the world changes

(Baby baby, that everything changes)

Bye bye my sweet love, to the time

Where I thought the small town

I ran around in was everything

As seasons pass, my youth

Has just started, brightly

Like the rainbow that greeted me

After getting wet by the pouring rain

Is it because I'm becoming more adult-like

And my friends tell me other things?

I go towards the dream

I didn't want to lose, yet be trapped in it

Bye bye sweet love
Goodbye to my childish dreams
At times I miss it, at times it's funny
I think I can know it now, everything was special
(Baby baby, I'm losing my mind)

Bye bye my sweet love
Even at the sun's after glow, to the time
Where I cried, those early days

As seasons pass, my youth
Has just started, brightly
Like the rainbow that greeted me
After getting wet by the pouring rain
Is it because I'm becoming more adult-like
And my friends tell me other things?
I go towards the dream
I didn't want to lose, yet be trapped in it

Will I be smiling when even my brown hair
That covers my sweaty forehead
Turns to a lighter shade?

As seasons pass, my youth
Has just started brightly
Like the rainbow that greeted me
After getting wet by the pouring rain
Is it because I'm becoming more adult-like
And my friends tell me other things?
I go towards the dream
I didn't want to lose, yet be trapped in it
