

New Moon

Tweedy

Well. I've always been certain nearly all of my life
One day I'd be your burden and you would be my wife
Let me hang like a new moon and let me be your twin
Let me hang like a new moon
Don't treat me like a stranger again

You keep me as your thief, please let me be a little more
When you fall asleep let me be what you're dreaming for
Let me hang like a new moon
Don't treat me like a stranger any more

Well, I've always been certain nearly all of my life
One day I'd be your burden and you would be my wife
Let me hang like a new moon high in the wind
Let me hang like a new moon
Don't treat me like a stranger again

You keep me as a thief, please let me be a little more
When you fall asleep let me be what you're dreaming for
I've always been certain nearly all of my life
