Sugarcane

Twin Shadow

In my head, there's a big white lie
Waiting for you
To pull out the truth

I'm afraid how I live my life
More like a lonely satellite

Even in my early innocence
I could never really connect
I don't know how you do it

If you cut me again
We'll be more than friends
I don't think we could lose it

Though our sorrows feel the same
Girl, you taste like sugar cane

When our love
Starts to feel like lightning
I'll bring my heart
Back from the dead

And your face holds
A piece of that light
Turning our hearts
Closer to red

Though our sorrow feels the same
Girl, you taste like sugar cane
And our sadness looks the same
So we taste like sugar cane

Where are you going
Chasing your mountain
Stay here
Holding my fingers
Taste what you're wanting

Though this sorrow feels the same
Girl, you taste like sugar cane

Though our sorrow feels the same
Girl, you taste like sugar cane
And our sadness looks the same
So we taste like sugar cane

And if we sin again
We will taste like cinnamon
