Eat That Up, It's Good for You

Two Door Cinema Club

You would look a little better Don't you know If you just wore less make-up But its hard to realize When you're sky high Fighting off the spaceships

And so you're drinking in your room To make it all go It didn't end too soon You've got the next one You're holding on too long You've got to let go Your other love is gone And you know

Its too late Its too late You've got another one coming And its going to be the same

I tried to find a quiet place that we could go To help you make decisions But I didn't find it easy to tell them apart With double vision

And so you're drinking in your room To make it all go It didn't end too soon You've got the next one You're holding on too long You've got to let go Your other love is gone And you know

Its not the same Its not the same Its not the same You're going to tell me that I'm right You're going to come back down And find yourself Where you are again

You didn't know You didn't know You didn't know So don't pretend you saw it now Its not something you'd want to happen Now you know who you are again
