

Good For You

Two Friends

She say's she so happy, ay
She swears she moved on
But she still late night text me
Complaining 'bout the new guys that she loves
She tells me she's better off now
Maybe once I would've cared
Cause it was hard right at the start
When you still had my heart
But now I got it back from your grasp

I don't care if you find someone new
Well that's good for you
Your hurting words don't burn like they used to
I'm like good for you
If you need to scream in my face
Telling me things have been so great
Well, that's cool, you seem so, so good, so good for you

So good, so good for you
So good, so good for you

Hit up all these places
You and I used to go
But I don't see your face there
It's just a parking lot
Or restaurant I love
And suddenly you're friends with my friends
When you never used to like them
And if other girls are in my view
You make them tell you who
Then tell me she ain't for you
Na, na, na

I don't care if you find someone new
Well that's good for you
Your hurting words don't burn like they used to
I'm like good for you
If you need to scream in my face
Telling me things have been so great
Well that's cool, you seem so, so good, so good for you

So good, so good for you
So good, so good for you

Now you're on your own
And you're happy there
Say you're moving on
But you wish I cared
So I don't wanna know how it goes
If you're feeling alone

And I've been good since you've left, no regrets
So don't pick up the phone

I don't care if you find someone new
Well, that's good for you
Your hurting words don't burn like they used to

I'm like good for you
If you need to scream in my face
Telling me things have been so great
Well, that's cool, you seem so, so so good
So good for you
So good for you
So good, so good for you, eh
