

Black Wedding

TX2

It's been two weeks
Since he tied the knot
He's dressed up clean
But there's a glove he forgot
And even the hostess knows
They're both about to explode

He raised his voice at her and she screamed
It's not by choice you don't love me
For once he nodded his head and agreed
And he said

Maybe, the cat got let out the bag
We miss the lives that we had
But we're married
So we fuck like strangers every night
And then role play lovers to bed
I should've listened to my friends
It's not a vow, honey, it's a threat

I never thought that I'd sit across
From a ball and chain that's locked
I told her dad, he stood there shocked
Then he spit in my face
Pissed and enraged
I said you gotta lot to say for
A man who wasn't faithful

He raised his voice at me and he screamed
His wife asked him with disbelief
For once he nodded his head and agreed

Maybe, the cat got let out the bag
We miss the lives that we had
But we're married
So we fuck like strangers every night
And then role play lovers to bed
I should've listened to my friends
It's not a vow, honey, it's a...

(This is what real love looks like)

This is what real love looks like
This is what real love looks like
This is what real love looks like
Let me introduce you to my life

Maybe, the cat got let out the bag
We miss the lives that we had
But we're married
So we fuck like strangers every night
And then role play lovers to bed
I should've listened to my friends
It's not a vow, honey, it's a threat
