

Not About You

Typecast

What makes this life meaningful?
Did it ever occur to you
The world doesn't revolve around you

These things you hold won't save you now
All it will do is bring you, bring you down

This won't save you now
This won't save you now
This will bring you down

Love is precious, love is fragile
Love is endless, love is everything
And everything is what you don't have
Love is precious, love is fragile
Love is endless, love is everything
And everything is what you don't have

You thought your life will be that easier
Those things will blind you, and then you'll give in Then you'll give up then you'll wake up

These things you hold won't save you now
All it will do is bring you, bring you down

This won't save you now
This will bring you down
This won't save you now

Love is precious, love is fragile
Love is endless, love is everything
And everything is what you don't have
Love is precious, love is fragile
Love is endless, love is everything
And everything is what you don't have

You're all alone
Is that what you want?
You're all alone
Is that what you want?

This won't save you now
This will bring you down
This won't save you now
This will bring you down

This can't save you now
This will bring you down
This won't save you now
This will bring you down
