

Lips Of A Liar

Under The Flood

We walked alone, in places no one should know.
As we danced along into the night.
Too far from home, too far for safety to show.
And I wondered how we'd survive, after all this time.

Welcome to the end, I'm losing sight of who I am.
I've given all that I had to defend, the pieces that will never mend.
Want to justify the guilt that's hanging in your eyes.
You've shown me all that I needed to find, straight from the lips of a liar.

Somewhere we fell and started losing ourselves.
And the way it's meant to be became nothing more to me than a dream.
I couldn't find the truth underneath.
So the blame falls on me and it came from the guilty.
So cry yourself to sleep, hoping I'll believe everything.

Welcome to the end, I'm losing sight of who I am.
I've given all that I had to defend, the pieces that will never mend.
Want to justify the guilt that's hanging in your eyes.
You've shown me all that I needed to find, straight from the lips of a liar.

So go, hide your face in the shame again (are you livin' in denial).
Go, as you walking away, you carry the blame, you were the worst part of me.

Welcome to the end, I'm losing sight of who I am.
I've given all that I had to defend, the pieces that will never mend.
Want to justify the guilt that's hanging in your eyes.
You've shown me all that I needed to find, straight from the lips of a liar.

Welcome to the end, I'm losing sight of who I am.
I've given all that I had to defend, the pieces that will never mend.
Want to justify the guilt that's hanging in your eyes.
You've shown me all that I needed to find, straight from the lips of a liar.