

Outlaw

Uneven Structure

I tried so hard to follow the rules.
The visible ones and the non-visibles.

The ones that have been engraved in the flesh.
The ones that have been entered by the blows.

But the animal is always the strongest.
The reptile I am is always taking over.
I tried to cage it a lot of times.
But he escaped ever and ever stronger.

I broke my chains and let go.
I have a wild heart, reason is dead.

No one owns anything but everything belongs to me.
My wishes are legion and my desires are queens.
I want to take and steal everything I can love.
To consume it as a beast.

I want to take and give the impossible.
I love and hate without counting.
As much for good as for bad.

I want to enjoy all my senses to the end.
Take me as I am or don't take me at all.
The beauty of my fretful pleasures reigns.

I broke my chains and let go.
I have a wild heart, reason is dead.
The game is worth the candle.
I will burn it at both ends.