Finding Out

Getting started is not hard I put up my guard and wait Patience seems to pay off later Making the best of what I've got A little becomes a lot All the thoughts I have are all on paper chorus Now won't you let me find out who I am When you're all around maybe I should identify What's gone wrong with my life? It hurts when they press and they won't let you rest Finding out life is a test many things to contest, There just please let me rest (MY MIND)

And when you fight to survive Let us know you're alive And maybe deep inside you are tuned in to what's right
