

Abysm

Unprocessed

Time starts running further
Breath stops; it's hurting again
Focus on the portrayal
That I painted the outlines for

'Cause you're trying to avoid the edge
And you're trying to seize the day
To avoid this tragedy
And to numb my feelings
It doesn't matter what I say
You can't decide how long you'll stay
There's no concealing
There's no concealing

You showed me the world, our planet
You talked to me when I was fragile
You gave me back my will to focus
I don't know anything, but to be with you

Until we're gone to waste I'll be there
Dive into the world that we share
When I hear your voice I still know
Everything is well until you're gone

We're a part of a system
A Universe that still unfolds
The old souls still within me
Paved me a way filled with wisdom

You showed me the world, our planet
You talked to me when I was fragile
You gave me back my will to focus
I don't know anything, but to be with you

I imagine the worst, and it won't stop
I imagine your death, how your heart stops
For I've been mourning since I was born
I tried to change, but it won't work out
All I want is you to stay
But even my self has to go one day
I stare at your face and see how it changes
And you can't make it stop

You can't make it stop

You're reading your book, and I listen
You're making the past feel so real
You're one of a kind; you have your own will
You're almost ready to let your life go

We're a part of a system
A Universe that still unfolds
The old souls still within me
Paved me a way filled with wisdom

You're reading your book, and I listen
You're making the past feel so real

You're one of a kind; you have your own will
You're almost ready to let your life go
