

This world can take and leave me nothing
But a heartbreak but I will not be broken Let 'em shake the ground that I'm standing on
And if I lose control I still will say
It is well, it is well with my soul

I have everything, everything
Because of what You've done
Neither life or death can take away
The power of Your blood
And that is everything, everything
And will always be enough
If I only have Your love
I have everything, everything, everything

This world has ways to tell me what I need
But they can wait on the back shelf, take the backseat
They're selling me security behind a wall of gold
But they can't fake the peace inside my soul

I have everything, everything
Because of what You've done
Neither life or death can take away
The power of Your blood
And that is everything, everything
And will always be enough
If I only have Your love
I have everything

You are all I need
You're the air I breathe
You're the anchor that I hold
You have covered me with unending peace
By Your stripes I am made whole

I have everything, everything
Because of what You've done
Neither life or death can take away
The power of Your blood
And that is everything, everything
And will always be enough
If I only have Your love
I have everything, everything, everything
If I only have Your love
Everything, everything, everything
Everything
