Motionlessly, staring at your back
I wonder if I should hold you close

These bold things are just my imagination
These large, short term wings just don't fly
(Only you are my friend)
Soothing words build up but remain unsaid
How did I get used to this so easily?

The temperature of my bath isn't warm enough
My dependency on you is not enough either
Maybe that's just unnecessary kindness to myself

I want to feel safe in someplace warm
Reading my favorite writer's book
(Only you are my friend)
Quickly forgetting the words of yesterday
Why do I doubt somebody I love?
(Only you are my friend)

Take a chance in the headwind and fly
Don't be anxious and close before the ending

However, I can be prepared for tomorrow, I'll go to sleep early tonight

What I'm writing I can say in front of you, I'm dreaming of heaven
