

Transience

Vampires on Tomato Juice

you have now been through our sorrows we opened up to show you what it's like -- in our lives one thing is sure -- all your lives are just a crumb in time everything dies

we watch you act like there's no more tomorrow you have now felt the spirit given now open up -- let it inside -- in your mind and time is tickin' n' tickin' and time is tickin' n' tickin away we watch them slippin away we watch them fall -- we watch them prey when colors turn into grey even we're not meant to stay even if we slip away everything ends -- the sea and the sky so how can we think we are the pride of creation in space -- we'll never find out we have to believe -- and hope something's left when we die time is the ground we lose every second of our life we are the vampires on tomato juice