

The Fall

Vanishing Point

So low I hold my head, I'm praying for every breath
I can feel I'm losing ground
I read between the lines, I saw life in black and white
I was lost in time

I should have seen the signs, I should have taken the long road
I should have reached for higher ground
I could have changed my mind, I could have lied that I'm feeling fine
As I step to the edge

I could make believe or I could take the fall
I could give up, give in or throw it all away
I could make believe or I could take the fall
I could give up, give in or throw it all

I'm too high above my head, I'm too late to second guess
I can feel I'm losing ground
If this pain is silver lining, I don't want to live this way
I'll watch it burn away

I should have seen the signs, I should have taken the long road
I should have reached for higher ground
I could have changed my mind, I could have lied that I'm feeling fine
As I step to the edge

I could make believe or I could take the fall
I could give up, give in or throw it all away
I could make believe or I could take the fall
I could give up, give in or throw it all

I could make believe or I could take the fall
I could give up, give in or throw it all away
I could make believe or I could take the fall
I could give up, give in or throw it all away
Throw it all away

Can't give up, give in
Won't give up, give in
Can't give up, give in
Won't give up, give in