

Central Time

Vansire

Driving just to hear the preferable songs
You loop with every passing day
Taking note of every temper you're on
The blinker lights will fall in phase
They'll fall in phase

The sun won't set for a long time
Golden hour
Never far
The moon results in a strong tide
Fewer stars

Sometimes I know love gets hard to find
In a flyover state
That's just a state of mind
Out late several hours in the night
So whenever you call
Remember Central Time

Righting of the indefensible wrongs
Accrued with every passing day
Chanting with the insurrectional throngs
And hoping things will fall in place
They'll fall in place

The sun won't set for a long time
Golden hour
Never far
The moon revolves in a strange line
Where we are

Sometimes I know love gets hard to find
In a flyover state
That's just a state of mind
Out late several hours in the night
So whenever you call
Remember Central Time

Sometimes I know love gets hard to find
In a flyover state
That's just a state of mind
Out late several hours in the night
So whenever you call
Remember Central Time

And ain't no way around it
Since this time zone shit been founded
Stretched my pockets, switched accountants
Postal if I'm not next to you
Bi-coastal I'm just one flight away
I just pray the plane never tidal wave
Pray you never crash when you type my name
Well fuck a text message just call me back, I need to FaceTime
Two hours ahead, don't waste time
Speed racer, she don't need to break lines
Just a payphone
Meet up on my hotline

Sixty minutes we be actin' like it's Dateline
Take that shit straight into a date night
Take all night, we get home late night
Then I take a redeye, now I'm sitting stateside
And I can only think about what a great night

And I can only think about what your face like
And I can only think about when you call me
Baby, take time
Baby, make time
Baby, make time
