

Losing Game

Vaults

Why wait? You'll only be a flower on the wall
Let go, there's only ever one way up to fall
Silent years kept you up and kept you proud
But now the dogs are spilling out of your open mouth

Say to yourself run and hide
Close your eyes and dive into the dark
Lose yourself, cut your ties
In your mind there's a thousand ways to love

Take this, let your flesh fall away from the bone
Have this, as simply as it's placed upon your tongue
Frozen years have kept you reaching for the night
But now the warmth it burns and sears too much too bright

Say to yourself run and hide
Close your eyes and dive into the dark
Lose yourself, cut your ties
In your mind there's a thousand ways to love

(If we let go) Say to yourself
(Of what we know) Run and hide
(And follow, more can grow)
(If we let go) Lose yourself
(Of what we know) Run and hide
(And follow, more can grow)