

Here it is. The day that I've been dreading
We've been led down this path
Without ever seeming to catch our breath
Scared to death. How can we save what's left?
Caught in the moment and this is how it all went
This is a tragedy, and how it ended so tragically
Everyone sees it. Everyone knows
With this in our lives we can't grow
So much for love and laughter
So much for happy ever after
Pretending like we never met is the best idea we've had yet
You can't. You can't fight it. Thee inevitable you invite it

You should know that I can take that you're running away
Cause you're right where I want you to be and it's fine
If you push me away. Cause I'm right where you want me to be

And as our final words fade I go about my day unfazed
Like nothing has changed
What was once inseparable has become un-connectable
It's obvious it's fine. Its been over for a long time
Why even search for the source. It's just that time
That time has run it's course. Now the world can see our affection
And that we boarded our trains in a different direction
Who's to blame? Because were exactly the same
We pushed each other away just to see things clearer
Cause you'll never find your future in the rear view mirror

You should know that I can take that you're running away
Cause you're right where I want you to be
And it's fine if you push me away
Cause I'm right where you want me to be

We know this can't be erased
The answer starring us straight in the face
Were pushing away completely
Because this is right where we needed to be

You should know that I can take that you're running away
Cause you're right where I want you to be
And it's fine if you push me away
Cause I'm right where you want me to be
Yeah, I can take that you're running away
Cause you're right where I want you to be
Yeah, it's fine if you push me away
Cause I'm right where you want me to be