

You can't kill me off I can't be ignored
No matter how hard I try to end it all
There's a spark inside that's ready to explode
It'll save me or kill me but I'll take either of those Cos at this point those options aren't juxtaposed
Life isn't worth living when you're in a permanent state of limbo

Back from the dead is it a miracle or just another fucking waste of my time?
Even the messiah had doubts about his sacrificial suicide
I press my hands together and pray for a reason for the existential panic to end
The only guarantee in life is knowing one day all your misery will have to descend

Offer up my life
Give me a reason to live
Make me satisfied
Find me a fuck that's left to give

Back from the dead is it a miracle or just another fucking waste of my time?
Even the messiah had doubts about his sacrificial suicide
I press my hands together and pray for a reason for the existential panic to end
The only guarantee in life is knowing one day all your misery will have to descend

Back from the dead is it a miracle or just another fucking waste of my time?
Even the messiah had doubts about his sacrificial suicide
I press my hands together and pray for a reason for the existential panic to end
The only guarantee in life is knowing one day all your misery will have to descend