

Love & Hate

Victory

Oh yes I'm tired of all the things that I see
I try to look away and let it be
Just sad how everything suddenly changed
Now I can't close my eyes, got to turn the tide

So many years I've been out of the scene
Got out of touch, didn't follow my dreams
But now I'm back and I'm stronger than ever before

Rising up from the darkness of the underground
I'm ready for another crazy round
The light of joy shines into my eyes again
Would you still follow me?

I know you love me today
You'll might hate me after tonight
The People they change their hearts all the time
This is the game of love and hate

My heart was broken, shattered and so torn apart
I couldn't find the strength for another start
But after all one must try to go on Taking back his life to get by

Life is a crazy train that never stops
Catch it on time and make it to the top
Never ever let yourself get down

Rising up from the darkness of the underground
I'm ready for another crazy round
The light of joy shines into my eyes again
Would you still follow me?

I know you love me today
You'll might hate me after tonight
The People they change their hearts all the time
This is the game of love and hate

I know you love me today
You'll might hate me after tonight
The People they change their hearts all the time
This is the game of love and hate