

Bleed Out

VOLA

We were born one day apart
I grew teeth, you grew a heart
We became a work of art, surely
You connected, I withdrew
You compiled the stones I threw
I'm a poison pushing through, purely

And all these casualties I can't explain
And all these sunken ships still move inside my vein
And all these bended trees that still remain
With all my mental ease they dance inside my brain

But what does it matter now, boy?
Our minds refuse to meet
We walk and then we bleed out
How do we turn around, boy?
We speak in future tense
Into violence

We were born one day apart
You got brushed and I got scarred
A peculiar drawing card, surely
I appalled while you amused
I avenged when you refused
I'm a poison pushing through, purely

And all these casualties I can't explain
And all these sunken ships still move inside my vein
And all these vultures in the window pane
With all my mental ease they dance inside my brain

But what does it matter now, boy?
Our minds refuse to meet
We walk and then we bleed out
How do we turn around, boy?
We speak in future tense
Into violence

I'm covered in blood
I'm covered in blood
I'm covered in blood
I'm covered in blood

Why we're covered in blush?
Why we're covered in blush?
Why we're covered in blush?
Why we're covered in blush?

Your satellite observes me
You see the tide when I lay still
We can't divide this heartbeat
Your feet will slide on what I've spilled

What does it matter now, boy?
Our minds refuse to meet
We walk and then we bleed out
How do we turn around, boy?

We speak in future tense
Into violence

We walk and then we bleed out
We walk and then we bleed out
