Like a Hemisphere

Vonda Shepard

He sees what I'm lacking and he tells me without attacking my life

He sees what I'm needing and he gives me love without my pleading

I see where his worries lie and I help him to decide He sees what I'm missing that sometimes I need to be alone but sometimes I need him to listen

Like a hemisphere he surrounds me with a wisdom that astounds me

Like the horizon he draws my eye to him and he makes me see jus t how lonely I have been

He knows what I'm thinking without a sign without blinking my e yes

I know what he's asking in our love there ain't no masking no disquise

I know what he's after it's the truth and the laughter Why can't we see in ourselves all the beauty we see in everybod y else

Like a hemisphere he surrounds me with a wisdon that astounds m $_{\rm e}$

Like the horizon he draws my eye to him and he makes me see Like a radio he calls out to me in the middle of the night Like a hemisphere he is perfectly clear and he makes me see just how lonely I have been

I don't wanna go through this life just getting by I want to fl y

I don't wanna go through this life not asking why

I need to know why we are here we are here together now

I don't wanna go through this life just to die

Well you made me see just how lonely I have been

Like a hemisphere he surrounds me with a wisdom that astounds me $_{\rm e}$

Like the horizon he draws my eye to him and makes me see
Like a radio he calls out to me in the middle of the night
Like a hemisphere he is perfectly clear and he makes me see jus t how lonely I have been
