Twisted

Voyager

You are the twisted aberration
That occupies my mind
Twisted permutation
That occupies my life
Panic's not an option
Option any more
It's post-life readoption
That shakes me to the core

Seeking resolution
That may never come
Is this evolution?
Am I on the run?
Is it so pervasive?
And does it feel alive?
Twisted aberration
That occupies my time

So won't you stay
Until it's over now?
Till all is said and done
I might just be the one
How will I know
That I am good enough?
That I am strong enough
To press my soul into your knife?

Hit me where it hurts now
Hit me where my heel is near my heart
Am I the guest of honour anymore?
'Cause it doesn't matter now

You are the twisted aberration
Yet I'm crashing down your door
Twisted permutation
Here I stand and ask for more
Panic's not an option
When you're lying in the cold
This post-life readoption
I'm afraid of getting sold

So won't you stay
Until it's over now?
Till all is said and done
You might just be the one
How will I know
That I am good enough?
That I am strong enough
To press my soul against your knife?

Hit me where it hurts now
Hit me where it hurts now
