Sometimes I feel like I'm a sculpture standing strong, but far from you
You look at me, admire everything, but still own that I do
You take my soul, my culture, then you wrap it in economy
You leave me on the side to die, but dance on my harmony, yeah

Twisted in love
Twisted in me
Twisted in you
Twisted in this
Twisted in them
Twisted in true
Twisted in time
Twisted in mind

I feel so violated by the history I have never known (Twisted)
I'm tryin' hard to find a reason to believe the things I've been told (Twisted)
But when I opened up to most of it, I find myself inside of you (Twisted)
And go beyond the expectations of oppression and the deepest truth (Twisted)

You like to take our culture and make a profit from our souls
You wrapt it up in dollars and pounds and claim it as your own
We know about that Elvis, he copied us appropriately
They make their money, but they don't invest in our community

Poverty, low income
Labeling culture, education
High birth, death rate, working class minds
Bias and broken, limiting lines
Adultification, system is sick
Mental health phantom, they gas light it
Praying to God, a white Jesus
Turn on the heat, twisted culture feeds us
