

House Down

Wafia

Please turn on your headlights cause you talk blind
And your words have lost their meaning
I could burn signs in your front yard
And I'd still get the feeling you don't care, you don't care
And your little lies have a big mouth and I can't find my way out
But it helps to know that
You'll never know that

You can take my hope but you can't burn my house down
Even if you did I'm happy that you moved out
You can lose your mind but I won't lose myself
You can burn my house down
But I'm fine with finding someone else
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can

You have so much anger
And my heart hurts when I try to understand you
But since childbirth you been bitter
Cause nobody ever taught you how to care, how to care
And your little lies have a big mouth and I can't find my way out
But it helps to know that
You'll never know that

You can take my hope but you can't burn my house down
Even if you did I'm happy that you moved out
You can lose your mind but I won't lose myself
You can burn my house down
But I'm fine with finding someone else
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can

You're not one to feel burnt and you could learn
But you'd never stop repeating
All your mistakes, you stay in place
Cause nobody ever taught you how to care, how to care
And your little lies have a big mouth and I can't find my way out
But it helps to know that
You'll never know that

You can take my hope but you can't burn my house down
Even if you did I'm happy that you moved out
You can lose your mind but I won't lose myself
You can burn my house down
But I'm fine with finding someone else
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can
You can, you can, you can
