

Blur

Wage War

How I got here, I don't remember now
I put the pieces back together again
Is every mirror broken in this house?
'Cause I can't see myself when I'm looking in

I'm so insecure, my vision's faded
I just make things worse, always so dilated
It's what I deserve, I don't try to change it
Even though I hate it

Feels like it's all a blur
It's only getting worse
And I know it's killing me
But I still don't wanna see
(Feels like it's all a blur)

(Feels like it's all a—)

These walls are closing in around the room
I'm always looking for a new way out
I can never seem to see it through
Feels like I'm upside down

Feels like it's all a blur
It's only getting worse
And I know it's killing me
But I still don't wanna see
(Feels like it's all a blur)

I'm so insecure, my vision's faded
I just make things worse, always so dilated
It's what I deserve, I don't try to change it
Even though I hate it
I know I have to face it
I know I have to face it

Feels like it's all a blur
It's only getting worse
And I know it's killing me (Killing me)
But I still don't wanna see
(Feels like it's all a blur)

(Feels like it's all a—)
