

Not Alone

Wallows

It's dark in the place where you used to be
And all I have's a shadow that you left for me
I got pictures in my head workin' overtime
See the shattered face of you through the blinds
I've counted all the sheep and I know
My brain is turning upside down

Oh, I didn't want to let this go
More than you will ever know

Can we get back to a place that leaves no scar?
Every little piece of us we've torn apart
Staring at the ceiling now and I can't sleep
Maybe all the slaughterhouses got the sheep
Or maybe they're just out getting sheared
To make a blanket of my fear

Oh, I didn't want to let this go
More than you will ever know

You make a mold
Your ghost is gone again
Enlightened by the sunlight shining in
I know it's wrong to know you're right in front of me
And, by the way, I know you're where you're meant to be
I'll wake alone
Your ghost is gone again
Enlightened by the sunlight shining in
Am I constrained in wondering if you think of me?
But either way, we're still not alone
Still not alone

We're okay, we're still not alone
Still not alone
Oh oh oh
Oh oh oh
Still not alone, still not alone
