Ten Years Ago

Walter Egan

By Walter Egan

Remember when we were new and time was our friend Our pleasure knew no end But somehow as we grew the years like a haze Occlude the younger days But when you look at me that way All of the years just fall and fade It could be yesterday Doesn't it feel like ten years ago Being together all alone Seeing ourselves as we did then Falling in love all over again. Its funny time brings us pleasure Time brings us pain No sunshine without rain Somewhere our plans stand abandoned Stillborn in time and dreams get left behind *But like a scene from yesterday In a revival here today Playing the parts that we once played Chorus Solo verse Repeat * Chorus
