

Loved By You

Ward Thomas

Late morning, sun in your hair
On the shoulder of the highway
Just one breath, from running scared
'Cause no one taught me how to stay

And I said "maybe I should be alone"
You wrapped me up and drove me home
With you, it's safe
With you, I changed
I'm finally brave enough to be loved by you

Dark shadows, deep in my mind
Hiding fears that I'm unworthy
Replaying the pain 'til I
Hurt myself before you hurt me

And I say "you'd be better off alone"
You hold me close and let me know
You're not afraid
You're here to stay
Remind me I deserve to be loved by you

Your quiet light, your heart of gold
Showing up everywhere you go
Make it a blessing just to know you

Late morning, sun in your hair
On the shoulder of the farm road
Hand in hand, and I'm not scared
To be planning our tomorrow

I say "I can't wait to see it grow"
We laugh and walk each other home
With you, it's safe
This life we've made
I'm forever lucky to be loved by you
