

This Too Will Pass

Ward Thomas

Does the sun feel betrayed by the sky when it rains?
Can the clash of blood and water under fire be contained?
Will we be reborn after the wake when the tide breaks?
When the tide breaks
It's growing up through a storm
Me growing apart
Will the ties that bind your heart to mine survive the stops and starts?
No one wanders
It would be so hard to be in this place
To be this age

I am fearless, I am worried
I am jealous, I am sorry
Please be patient, I am finding my way back
This too will pass

You and I have rolled the dice upon high waters for a dream
Side by side, we rode the highs and lows of life's pendulum swinging
One brave step into different directions
It's a new stage, at a new age

I am fearless, I am worried
I am jealous, I am sorry
Please be patient, I am finding my way back
This too will pass
This too will pass

Ooh, ooh, ooh
Ooh, ooh
Ooh, ooh, ooh
Ooh, ooh
Ah, ah, ah
Ah, ah
Ah, ah, ah
Ah, ah

I am fragile, I am honest
I am strong enough to promise
If you're patient, I will find my own way back
This too will pass