

Higher Sky

Wardrum

Another dream comes true
But still the fire burns inside me
The things I can't get through
To face that you are not beside me

Maybe it's better this way
It seems we could not hide the tension
Who knows but maybe some day
Our needs might point the same direction

My heart is stealing
More than you're feeding
This cannot grant me wings to fly
New sights before me
You're not conforming
This is the point we wave goodbye

The winds of time might change
But nothing ties us back together
Nothing remains the same
None of these feelings lasts forever

It is that simple and plain
But still I don't know why it hurts me
Feels like I'm locked on your chain
At least I found the strength to break it

My heart is stealing
More than you're feeding
This cannot grant me wings to fly
New sights before me
You're not conforming
This is the point we wave goodbye

My faith was lost and found
What we do is only what happens
This world is spinning 'round
Reach your goal, mark your road
