

When Worlds Collide

Warmen

They knocked on the sky today
A few had heard the sound it gave Something had answered back
An unseen divide
They wish for a chance to see some unknown dark entity
Knowing are are at a place where two worlds collide

Standing against a threat
Unsure how it all could end
Neither will make a move
Only one can survive
They could not bring themselves to fight
It wouldn't be justified
Both knowing how it would end when two words collide will collide

No time to live, no time to die
When worlds collide
Our time to live, our time to die
Will the world survive? (3x)