

Back Together

Waylon

We don't say a word, walking through this house
Nothing keeps us here but we are still around
Shadows everywhere, the ghosts of what we were
And what if we surrender, and give in to the hurt?

What if I kissed you right now
And all the fire we've been missing
Starts raining down
I'm breaking through the walls
And I'm screaming out loud
It ain't passed the point of gone forever
It might be broken
But we can put this back together

That old clock on the wall has got nothing but time
And we can't turn it back away from goodbye
I love you way too much to let it turn to hate
Put our weapons down, ooh, it's not too late

What if I kissed you right now
And all the fire we've been missing
Starts raining down
I'm breaking through the walls
And I'm screaming out loud
It ain't passed the point of gone forever
It might be broken
But we can put this back together

We can put this back together
Ooh, we can put this back together
We can put this back together

What if everything we've been through
Was to show us what we have to me
Not what we have to lose

And what if I kissed you right now
And all the fire we've been missing
Starts raining down
I'm breaking through the walls
And I'm screaming out loud
It ain't passed the point of gone forever
And what if I kissed you right now
And all the fire we've been missing
Starts raining down
I'm breaking through the walls
And I'm screaming out loud
It ain't passed the point of gone forever
It might be broken
But we can put this back together

We can put this back together
Ooh, we can put this back together
We can put this back together
Back together
