

The River

We Are Messengers

I belong to a world
Nobody here seems to know
I still believe every dream
And I never fall asleep alone
You couldn't trade your mind for a sip
And you wonder why you feel so cold
Go on put your feet in the river
Let the river come and save your soul

I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river

I belong to a song
Nobody wants me to sing
But I don't need to see to believe
That this river's headed for the sea
I won't trade my soul for the gold
Oh the devil's got no hold on me
You can put your feet in the river
Let the river come and set you free

I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river

My soul is parched
And my lips are dry
All I want to taste is
The rains from the sky
Break through the swell
Where the waters are deep
Where I can be clean
And I can be free

I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
I belong, yeah, I belong, yeah
I belong to the river
