

Not Another Word

We Are Scientists

Signal to noise
You're breaking the ratio
It's hard to make out anything at all
We've got a choice
To say that we'll fake it or
Agree to hang it up when we decide
That we're much better off just keeping quiet

I know that you think you're testing me
But I've already learned my lesson
Here so baby not another word
There's no need to make a mess of this
But you only keep mixing messaged
So baby not another word

Something between us, barely a filament
Was this connection ever real at all?
If what you mean is purely subliminal
And I'm just guessing every single time
Then I suspect we need to draw a line here

I know that you think you're testing me
But I've already learned my lesson
Here so baby not another word
There's no need to make a mess of this
But you only keep mixing messaged
So baby not another word

I know that you think you're testing me
But I've already learned my lesson
Here so baby not another word
There's no need to make a mess of this
But you only keep mixing messaged
So baby not another word

I know that you think you're testing me
But I've already learned my lesson
Here so baby not another word
There's no need to make a mess of this
But you only keep mixing messaged
So baby not another word
