

True Blue

Widowspeak

Someone said you had moved to the ocean
And now it makes sense
I passed the house, but I didn't stop
I just felt tired I guess
I feel something when I hear your name in passing
Clear as a bell
When I hear someone singing you or like you
Not as well

True blue
Mm
True blue
Still talking about you

You talked like you'd be remembered
When you told me your name
You waltzed around meeting strangers
But I liked you the same
We danced on the weekend
'Cause then we had plans
Good people are hard to find
I keep them, when I can

True blue
Mm
True blue
Still talking about you

Do you ever get tired of swimming
Are you sleeping more in the west?
Wash your hair with peppermint and lemon
Palomine on your breath
The pull of the tide was too great, I know
You meant as well as you could
Just wanted something to write on a stone
To tell everyone you were good

True blue
True blue
Still talking about you
True blue
